TERMS AND CONDITIONS

This is a mail bid auction conducted by Classical Numismatic Group, Inc. (CNG). Bidding in the auction constitutes acceptance of the following terms and conditions.

1. The property listed in this catalogue is offered for sale by CNG for itself and as agent for various owners and other consignors. We reserve the right to reject any bid, to determine the opening price, to set bidding increments, to vary the order of the auction, to reopen bidding in the case of a dispute, to withdraw any lot, to bid on behalf of CNG, to bid on behalf of the consignor, and to permit the consignor to bid on his own material whether to protect a lot or for any other purpose.
2. All lots are subject to a 10 % Buyer's fee which will be added to the hammer price.
3. All coins are guaranteed genuine. Grading and other descriptions are the opinion of the cataloguer, and no warranty is expressed or implied. Please note that an auction sale is not an approval sale. Lots examined prior to the sale and lots purchased by floor bidders (including bidders executing commission bids on behalf of other parties) may not be returned for any reason except authenticity. All claims of misdescription and all claims of return for any other reason, except claims regarding authenticity, must be made within 5 days of receipt of material. Estimates are intended as a guide only and not as a statement of opinion of value.
4. Terms are for cash, with invoices being due and payable immediately upon receipt. Interest and collection charges of 1.5% per month, from the date of the auction, shall be payable on invoices not settled within 30 days of the sale date. Payment by check must be made in either US dollars ($) drawn on a US bank or British sterling (£) drawn on a British bank. All successful bidders outside North America and the United Kingdom will be invoiced an additional $15 fee for bank charges, but buyers may deduct this fee if payment is made as required above. Payment may be made by Visa or Mastercard (Access); however, a 3.5% surcharge is made for the use of a credit card.
5. Bidders not known to us must provide us with satisfactory credit references or pay a deposit as determined at CNG's discretion before bidding. Minors are not permitted to bid without written consent of a parent guaranteeing payment. CNG may require payment in full from any bidder prior to delivery of lots. Title does not pass until lots are paid in full. Upon receipt of lots, the buyer assumes full responsibility for loss or damage.
6. Estimates are in U.S. dollars ($US) and bids must be in even dollar ($) amounts. CNG will execute mail bids on behalf of mail bidders. Where competition permits, mail bids will be executed at approximately 10% over the next highest bid. Please note that bids below estimate are rarely reduced, but bids above estimate stand a good chance of being reduced. In the case of identical bids, the earliest bid wins. A mail bid has priority over an identical floor bid. Bid by lot number. No lots will be broken. Bidders are responsible for errors in bidding. Check your bid sheet carefully.
7. A word on Reserves. CNG reserves the right to place a reserve on any lot. However, no reserve will be higher than the estimate, and ordinarily lots are reserved at 60% of estimate.
8. Bidders personally guarantee payment for their successful bids, including bidders executing commission bids from other parties and bidders representing corporations or other entities. Buyers accepting commission bids from other parties do so at their own risk and remain responsible to CNG for full settlement under these Terms and Conditions.
9. In the event a successful bidder fails to make any payment when due, CNG reserves the right to resell the material, and the bidder agrees to pay for the reasonable cost of such a sale and also to pay any difference between the resale price and the previously successful bid. CNG also reserves the right to offset any sums due from a successful bidder against any future consignment or purchase or monies or goods in possession of CNG.
10. Sales tax, postage, handling and insurance are the responsibility of the buyer and are added to all invoices where appropriate. Postage, handling and insurance for book lots will be invoiced separately from coin lots. On any tax not paid by the purchaser which should have been paid, even if not invoiced by CNG, the purchaser agrees to pay the same on demand together with any interest or penalty that may be assessed. It is the responsibility of the buyer to comply with foreign customs and other regulations.
11. Prices Realised are published after the sale and are mailed to all subscribers to CNG publications.
12. Bidders consent to waive any claim for incidental or consequential damages arising from this auction. The sole remedy that any participant in the auction shall have for any claim or controversy arising out of the auction shall be a refund of the original purchase price and buyer's premium paid by the participant.
13. All rights granted by CNG or otherwise available to bidders and purchasers, under these Terms and Conditions or otherwise, are personal and may not be assigned or transferred to any other person or entity, whether by operation of law or otherwise. No third party may rely on any benefit or right conferred by these Terms and Conditions. Bidders acting as agents must disclose the agency in writing to CNG prior to the auction; otherwise rights are limited to the agent and are not transferable to the undisclosed principal.
14. Any dispute regarding this auction shall be adjudicated only by a state or federal court located in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, and all bidders submit themselves to the personal jurisdiction of these courts for this purpose. In any dispute regarding this auction, the prevailing party shall be entitled to recover its reasonable attorney fees.

GOOD LUCK, and remember to mail your bid sheet early.
Bid sheets must be received by March 15, 1995.

The use of the anchor and the A clearly marks this as an issue of Apollonia, and it follows that the accompanying pieces with A only are also of that city. The question then is which, if any of these early "pre-coins", can be attributed to Istros, or perhaps to other cities in the region?

This coin and those of the following six lots were possibly struck to pay Cretan mercenary troops of the Macedonian king Perseus.

In a series of articles by Richard Ashton, Tony Hackens, Martin Price and others, evidence has been presented suggesting the extensive minting of Rhodian style drachms in Crete, mainland Greece and possibly other areas in the early 2nd century BC. These issues were struck to pay the armies of mercenaries employed by both Rhodes and other states involved in the numerous wars of the Hellenistic period. Ashton has attributed the series of Rhodian types without the PO ethnic to a mint in northern Greece, with a date possibly as late as Perseus' war against Rome in 171 BC. Similar types, but with the PO are associated with Rhodian activities on Crete beginning circa 200 BC and are either official Rhodian issues or struck on Crete.

Rare 'Facing Bust Type' of Phraates III

Fred Shore has identified three distinct phases in the coinage of Phraates III. The first, with a young portrait facing left, was possibly struck during a joint reign of Phraates and his father Sinatrukes before 70 BC. The rare facing head issue may be regarded as a coronation issue at his assumption of sole rule, as is perhaps the more common bust with tiara type. Later types show him as an older man with long beard.

Rare "Pedigree" Tetradrachm of Agathokles

MIG 143; Bopearachchi Série 13A. Good VF, heavy porosity. ($4500)

The "pedigree" coinage of Agathokles and Antimachos reaffirms their joint claims to the independent kingdom established by Diodotos and expanded by Euthydemos, and through them traces the lineage to the Seleukid kings of Syria and eventually, to Alexander the Great. Alexander, Antiochos I and Pantaleon, another early Baktrian king, are all honored on extremely rare coins of the two successor kings. Eukratides would issue a parallel pedigree coinage when his revolt led to the overthrow of the first Baktrian dynasty.

Under Trajan and Hadrian several series of bronze quadrantes were struck in the name of the imperial mines in Noricum, Dalmatia, Pannonia and Moesia (Dardania). These operations supplied metal for the mint at Rome, and perhaps were the sites of workshops to produce coinage for local circulation or as donatives. Others theorize that these pieces were struck at Rome itself, and served some unidentified function, much as the contemporary "nome" coinage struck at Alexandria in Egypt. Whatever the circumstances, these pieces saw limited use, and, except for one rare type struck by Marcus Aurelius, were not issued at any other period.

An Unique Denarius of Severus Depicting the Capitoline Triad

871. SEPTIMIUS SEVERUS. 193-211 AD. AR Denarius (2.96 gm). 206 AD. SEVERVS PIVS AVG, laureate head / PM TRP XIII COS III PP, the Capitoline Triad - Minerva holding shield and spear, Jupiter with thunderbolt and sceptre, Juno with patera and sceptre; all seated on dais. RSC—; RIC—; Hill—. EF. [See enlargement on cover] ($1500)

The temple of Jupiter Capitolinus was founded in the first year of the Republic, 509 BC; the dedication to three deities Jupiter, Juno and Minerva reflecting the Etruscan origins of the Roman state religion. Although the temple itself is not shown on this unique and previously unknown denarius of Severus, the arrangement of the figures exactly parallels the depictions of the statues shown in the interior of that edifice, most clearly on the sestertii of Vespasian (cf. RIC 577, pl. III, 37). The temple makes other appearances on issues of Domitian, commemorating its rebuilding after the fire of 80 AD, and again in 202 AD for the decennalia of Severus. There is no specific event known to have occurred in 206 to account for this unique type, but it may record the completion of the rebuilding of the temple.

In northern Britain, the Antonine Wall had never fulfilled its allotted role, and by the end of the second century, its defenses had been almost completely abandoned. This left the important territory of Britain open to invasion from the north. In 208 AD, Severus, accompanied by his wife and two children, left for Britain, an event celebrated by this coin. Caracalla led a massive expedition into Caledonia, but was not able to achieve any lasting results. The Antonine Wall was abandoned as the northern frontier, and Hadrian's Wall instead was strengthened as the frontier boundary.

At the age of fourteen, Varius Avitus Bassianus (Elagabalus) inherited the office of high priest of the sun-god Elagabalus at Emesa in Syria. The cult of his sun god was represented by a sacred stone, and in 219 when he moved from Emesa to Rome, he took the stone, probably a meteorite, with him. Unlike usurpers of the past, Carausius recognizes the legitimacy of the other two emperors Diocletian and Maximianus, a favor that was not returned. This recognition takes several forms, the striking of coins in the name of Diocletian and Maximianus, the striking of coins with a triple portrait of the three emperors and, as on this coin, the use of the formula AVGGG.

1012. CARAUSIUS. 287-293 AD. Antoninianus (4.82 gm). London mint. Radiate, draped and cuirassed bust right / SALVS PVBLICA, Salus stranding right, feeding snake; BE/MLXXI. RIC V pt.2, 165. Good VF, slightly weak strike. Scarce type. ($125)

and donatives. The location of the "RSR" mint has been attributed to London for the following reasons: 1). the logical location for a precious metal mint would be Carausius' administrative capital, and 2). an RSR aureus shares an obverse die with an unmarked antoninianus attributed to the London mint. Donative type coins, gold, silver and bronze medallions were all struck with RSR letters and P.J. Casey in "Carausius and Allectus: The British Usurpers" speculates that all the base metal coins are unofficial.

Similar to RIC V pt. 2, 710 but without the reverse legend. The crudeness of the lettering, the reverse being unintelligible, suggests that this is a contemporary imitation.

J. van Heesch, "The Last Civic Coinages and the Religious Policy of Maximinus Daza (312 AD)", Num Chron 1993, pp. 65-75 has provided the latest chronology for the anonymous civic bronzes of the 4th century. An active campaign of persecution against local Christians, abetted by Maximinus, reached its height in Nicomedia, Antioch and Alexandria. Churches were closed, property was seized from the Christians and they were expelled from many cities. The three major mint cities struck a series of small bronzes honoring the old Greco-Roman gods, Jupiter, Apollo, Tyche and Serapis among them. The persecutions subsided the following year, possibly as a result of concerns expressed by Constantine and Licinius, the emperors in the west.

This mint mark not listed in RIC VII, although the note for no.169 does list this mint mark on a coin of Crispus in Munich. The appearance of this mint mark on the coins of three different rulers (see lot 1139) would suggest that this is another mint mark variety, not just a mis-engraved die, for this issue which already consists of mint marks with 5 different symbols.

The footnote to RIC 2528 refers to an 1847 catalogue by Sabatier, giving this type to the Ravenna mint. The second letter of the mintmark does appear to be a V, not an M.

1180. ZENO. 474-491 AD. AV Fourré Solidus (3.43 gm). Helmeted and cuirassed bust, with spear and shield / Victory holding long voided cross; Γ / CONOB. Cf. DOCLR 629. VF, plating broken. ($75)

Extremely Rare 40 Nummi of Zeno

1181. ZENO. 474-491 AD. AE 40 Nummi (14.32 gm). Rome. 477 AD? IMP ZENO FELISSIMO SEN AVG, diademed bust; •III• below / INVICT A ROMA SC, Victory right, with trophy and wreath; (•XL•) in exergue. RIC X 3666; DOCLR 689; MEC 92; LRBC 877. Good VF, pale green and brown patina. Extremely rare, and one of the clearest portraits among the handful of known examples. ($2750)

The precise dating and rationale for this, the last "Roman" bronze of the mint of Rome, cannot be decided on the known evidence. Odovacar had removed the last emperor in Rome, Romulus Augustus, in 476, seeing no need for a separate western emperor. Thus this piece could declare his continuing loyalty to Zeno, the eastern emperor. The IIII below the bust might represent the fourth year of Zeno's reign (477). Alternately, this piece could be regarded as the beginning of the Ostrogothic monetary reforms of the 490's which saw the re-introduction of large circulating bronzes and probably spurred the later reform of Anastasius around 498. The IIII would then be the fourth officina of the mint. This piece can be regarded as either the last of the Roman bronzes or the first of the Byzantine folles.

DARK AGES

Heretofore Unknown Æ of Hermenegild

1192. Hermenegild. 579-584 AD. Æ 12mm (1.47 gm). Crude bust right / ERM with bar above. VF, encrusted dark green patina. ($600)

Hermenegild rebelled against his father Leovigild in 579, a family rift further aggravated by Hermenegild's conversion in 582 to Catholicism, the faith of his wife Ingundis of Austrasia (the Visigothic royal house supported the Arian creed). Hermenegild was probably encouraged by Frankish and Byzantine factions who saw their influence in Iberia waning under the strong rule of Leovigild, and who wished to see the Visigothic realm divided and weakened. Leovigild had first to put down a revolt of the Basques, but when he turned to deal with his son in 582 he easily overwhelmed his forces. Hermenegild received no aid from his erstwhile backers, other than being declared a Catholic martyr after his murder in 585. Beginning in 579, Hermenegild affirmed his independent rule by striking extremely rare gold tremisses that were the first Visigothic coins to name the ruler, rather than simply imitate Byzantine prototypes. This previously unknown bronze shows that Hermenegild extended that innovation to smaller denominations. It is indeed the only Visigothic bronze with the name of the king upon it, rather than a mint signature.

Two examples of this type were found at Kranj and Rifnic, towns at the eastern border between Lombard territory and the Balkans. While Cos attributes them to the Lombards, other scholars regard them as precursors to the denars of the Slavic tribes of Dalmatia.

The "stellati" histamenon has exercised the minds of numismatists for generations. The popular story that the stars represent the Great Nebula of 1054 has never found substantiation in the historical record. An alternative theory, that it marks the Great Schism of the Churches that also occurred in 1054 is an event that is unlikely to have been commemorated on a Byzantine coin, even if the significance was realized at the time. So we need another event worthy of commemoration. There are three factors to be taken into account. The first is the stars themselves, obviously reflecting a dual event of great contemporary significance, since they appear only on one specific issue. The second is that there is also a change in the imperial portrait; Constantine holds a globus cruciger and a sword, as opposed to the usual globus and scepter. And finally, there is an obvious change in the form of the coin itself, with the type being found with both flat and concave ("scyphate") fabrics. This probably reflects some subtle shift in weight and/or fineness. As Grierson suggests, the change in fabric probably occurred early in the reign of Constantine, sometime in the 1040's. If the star issue is seen as transitional, it would have to have been struck in the mid-1040's, leaving no basis for the traditional 1054 date. So, do the stars reflect a significant event(s) of that time? Early in 1043, the renowned general George Maniakes, having lost his position in a dispute with a fellow official, rebelled and led his army in Anatolia against the capitol. A hard fought battle in Thrace saw the death of the rebel and the defeat of his forces. In that same year 1043, the Russian prince Jaroslav, either acting in concert with Maniakes or simply taking advantage of the chaos of civil war, sent 400 ships and 20,000 men to besiege Constantinople. The resulting confrontation with the Byzantine navy on the Bosphorus ended with the almost complete destruction of the Russian fleet. Perhaps the costs of these two conflicts necessitated a reduction in the value of the currency, marked by the change from flat to curved flans. The "stellati" thus commemorate the twin victories of 1043, with Constantine depicted as a victorious soldier-emperor, defender of the Empire, sword in hand, flanked by symbols of his God-given successes. Michael Bringas (or Stratioticus) was an elderly civil servant pushed forward by palace officials to succeed Theodora, the last of the Macedonian dynasty. He was caught squarely in the middle of the struggle for power between palace and military factions, and was unable to mediate an agreement that would preserve his rule and civil peace. Michael quietly abdicated in the face of a revolt by the general Isaac Comnenus and retired to a monastery.

The early coinage of Estridsen shows unmistakable Byzantine influence, and can be dated as early as 1044, when he rebelled against Magnus of Norway. He was initially backed by Harald Hardrada, who rose to prominence in the Varangian guard, bodyguards for the Byzantine emperor in Constantinople. Tradition recalls that Harald returned home with a vast treasure, which he used to support Estridsen and later to become king of Norway himself.

Two Rare Merovingian Silver Deniers

1478. FRANCE. Merovingians. Theodoric I? 511-534. AR Denier (0.58 gm). VSASVINAS PP AV, diademed bust (Anastasius?) / +(...)CIVITA, monogram. MEC-; Prou-; Belfort-. Good VF, weak strike on a poor flan. ($1000)

The identification of this piece hinges on the deconstruction of the monogram. A similar monogram on a bronze nummus (Belfort 5462) is attributed to Theodebert I. This monogram lacks the B, and might be construed as Theodoricus. Another nummus (MEC 388) attributed to Theodoric has a quite different monogram. A piece with a clear mint name (METTIS CIVITA?) would resolve the problem.

Lot 1936

1936. England. "Billie and Charlie". Circa 1860. Pewter Amulet 120mm. King enthroned / Two knights, upper loop flanked by mermaids. A large impressive example of the work of Billie Monk and Charlie Eaton, two 19th century "mudlarks" who scavenged the banks of the Thames river for coins and artifacts to sell to collectors and museums. Deciding it was more profitable to produce their own antiquities, and happily unaware of history or literacy, but eager to please, they adapted designs taken from the pages of popular magazines depicting medieval times, devised fanciful legends and fictitious dates and created their own unique categories of forged amulets, tokens and pilgrim badges. Amazingly, in retrospect, enough scholars were duped by the new "discoveries" to allow Billie and Charlie to supply an active market for several years before their activities were revealed. A fascinating piece of Victoriana, examples of which even today will sometimes appear in catalogues as genuine medieval artifacts. ($150)

Princess Clementine of Poland was betrothed to James III, Stuart pretender to the English throne. George I, hoping to forestall the continuation of the Stuart line, arranged to have her arrested at Innsbruck on her way to join James in Rome, a scheme whose success was assured by Clementine's mother stopping to shop in Augsburg, thus delaying their journey. James' agent Charles Wogan then executed a midnight raid on Ambras castle to free the princess and bring her safely to Rome. Mother was left behind.
